
Obituary -- Tales Of The Dead

WEBSTER SPRINGS, WEST VIRGINIA, MAY 31, 1995

By Lakhinder Bhatia, M.D.

An obituary is a notice of someone's death. I was surprised to find out how many people read the obituary section of the newspaper. To my surprise almost half the readers admitted to reading the obituary column on a regular basis. The older a reader, the more likely he or she is to read the obituary section. In a small town virtually everyone finds some space in the obituary list. It is pitiable that during the lifetime of an individual no one seemed to care, but upon his death, the whole town came to mourn his or her passing away. In a big city only the influential and powerful find a place in the obituary list. It is almost an honor. It also depends upon the political views of the deceased. After all, who will publish a biographical sketch of an unknown entity if the person was not a politician?

I learned the politics of obituaries many years ago when I was in London. I was a young trainee physician and worked in a politically sensitive hospital. You were either a Tory or a Laborite, just as we are in this county -- a Republican or a Democrat, irrespective of your belief in democracy. One day I overheard my chief talking to another physician, "David, did you see Sir John's obituary in The Sunday Times?". "Tragically it was not in The Daily Telegraph", the doctor replied. They were talking about a distinguished physician friend who had died. The content of their conversation implied that the deceased was not conservative enough to deserve a few kind words in The Daily Telegraph, a conservative newspaper. In other words, even in death people did not spare Sir John for having different ideas which were not shared by the mainstream establishment. In England it is almost class consciousness.

Fortunately, America society is more transparent and class boundaries are less distinct. One may still find an obituary written in an American newspaper even when one is not an American and worse still, in some cases, downright anti-American. I can predict with a fair amount of confidence that when the time will come for Fidel Castro, the American media will cover his obituary extensively. Will it be an obituary with "grudging admiration" or venom, I honestly do not know. I am sure how Colonel Gaddafy will be treated. If obituaries are important historical records, the Colonel justifiably has the dubious distinction of being a terrorist.

No profession takes an obituary more seriously than doctors. The British Medical Journal has an obituary editor solely for compiling and writing obituaries of physicians. There is a three to five month waiting period before an obituary is published and only less than half make it in the obituary list. Although the dead do not complain, their living friends do. Most vocal and retired doctors who check every issue of the medical journal to find out which one of them has been bumped off. The reputed medical journal JAMA has an obituary list every week. It is like a graduation party for those who have finally made it to the end. For some physicians it is an ultimate step to immortality.

British doctors treat their obituaries with extreme seriousness and absurdity apart with some degree of eccentricity. Although the medical profession has a compulsory Medical Register of physicians, in their view it is not a historical record. For many, an obituary is an important historical record which also provides us information on the changes and attitude of the profession of the time.

There is always a minority whom you can never satisfy. Less successful physicians complain about an obituary of their competitors in bygone life who were more famous than them. To the living it is glorifying the dead. When some pragmatists advocated compromise that obituaries should be cut down to size so that more could be published in the journal, many cried foul and wanted well-elaborated biographical sketches including a photograph. Some doctors think obituaries are more interesting than poor quality research papers. The idea of a drug company-sponsored obituary is horribly absurd.

To write an obituary is not an easy task. In fact to write anything of substance is not an easy work. It requires time and timely research. It has to be factual. A self-written obituary would be less time consuming and more accurate. I find an obituary more interesting if it is written wittily. Since everyone is not a born writer, I am not sure how a self-written obituary would be more interesting unless it was written by a ghost writer. I once came across a self-written obituary which read, "Peter was a rebellion of the time and did not conform to routine. He was very much his own man. As a successful transplant surgeon, he was God to his patients". God was not amused at Peter's self-eulogy. After Peter's death he was reminded, "Well doctor, I don't care what you did on planet earth but around here there is only one God. And that is Me."

IN MEMORY OF A FRIEND

John Craig Ashford was born at the Sutton Homestead, near Greenbank, W. Va., March 31, 1871. Died at the C. & O. Hospital, Clinton Forge, Va., January 23, 1924, and was laid to rest in the Arbovale Cemetery on January 26th.

In the death of Craig Ashford, Pocahontas Co., has lost one of her most loyal citizens, and many of her people, a noble hearted and true friend.

Beginning in early manhood with no means to speak of, by untiring energy and industry, he succeed well in life, providing well for his household and acquiring considerable property in the meantime.

Upright and honest, kind and liberal hearted, he was always ready to lend a helping hand to those in need.

Always looking on the bright side of life, with his genial smile and chesy disposition, he won friends wherever he went or was known.

Though full of life and fun from his earliest childhood, he always stood up for the right. A jolly and generous playmate, a noble hearted and true friend always.

Though never having joined any denomination, he was always ready to aid any good cause, and in his kind and generous way, lived a better and nobler life than many in the pales of the church. Cut down in the prime of life when he had much to live for. He met his fate (as he had always lived) uncomplaining and unafraid.

He leaves to mourn his loss a wife, two children, his aged parents, one biother and sister, and a host of relatives and friends, who will ever miss his cheery smila and hearty greeting till we meet him in the Great beyond where partings will be no more.

Oh how sad it was from him to part
The one with such a true and noble heart.
The one with the laughing eyes so dear,
The one with the voice so full of cheer.

Oh how we hated to see him go,
To see the laughing eyes grow dim.
To feel the pangs of lifes' bitterest woe,
No more on earth to be with him.

But we see a vision across the way
Of the sunlit shores of Eternal Day,
And with the throngs that have gathered there,
The one that has gone, whom we loved so dear.

We leave this world, we cross the tide,
An Angel comes swiftly to our side,
We hear the voice, so familiar of yore saying, "Loved ones this Heaved, we part no more."

Dewey had brain surgery November 1, 1976, and walked out of the hospital one week later without help—a miraculous recovery from the surgery itself but the surgeon had been unable to remove all of the tumor.

He received chemotherapy about every six weeks. It made him very ill for a couple of days. He lost his hair, but didn't lose his sense of humor—he said he looked just like Kojak. He went back to work, and appeared to be fine—even drove to Florida for a vacation in July.

In August his medication made him so ill that he had to stop taking it and his check-up showed that it hadn't helped, the tumor was growing moderately. From August until his death on December 1, he had bouts with pneumonia.

Rev. Joshua Buckley

Tuesday, April 23, 1901, this venerable and widely known citizen of our County died at the home of his son, John, near Buckeye, in the 92nd year of his age. The infirmities of age so advanced, aggravated by influenza are the apparent reasons for his decease.

Mr. Buckley is a lineal descendant of Joshua Buckley, the pioneer of Buckeye, coming there from the lower valley previously to the Revolution between 1770-75. For more than fifty years Rev. Joshua Buckley was a preacher in the pale of the M. E. church and a staunch promoter of the same, having been among the original members of the Pocahontas branch of that worthy denomination. He has probably officiated at as many if not more marriages than any minister that ever lived in our County. The sincerity of his piety was never questioned, his honesty above suspicion, and his sense of honor very elevated, for he would do what he deemed right at the peril of his life.

John Buckley, Jr., of Buckeye, Mrs. Asa McNeill and Mrs. Ulysses McNeill, of Sutton, Mrs. William McNeill and Mrs. Joseph Adkison, of Upper Swago, Rev. Mrs. Boggs of the M. P. Church, Mrs. Lum Silva and Mrs. Thomas, of Buckeye, are his living children.

"Mark the perfect man and behold the upright, for the end of that man is peace." The writer honors his memory as an esteemed personal acquaintance and Christian brother for more than fifty years.

Marlinton Barber Killed In Automobile Accident

James Buzzard, 34, of Huntersville suffered injuries which led to his death several hours later when his car apparently went out of control and turned over on State Route 39 about three miles east of Marlinton. The accident occurred Sunday evening at about 6:30 as Buzzard was driving in the direction of Marlinton. He was alone in the car at the time and, so far as has been determined, there were no witnesses to the wreck. From the tire marks on and along the highway it has been deduced that the car went out of control on a slight curve left the pavement, swerved to the right and back to the left, traveling along the berm. When the car came back on the pavement, it turned over and rolled about 300 feet down the middle of the highway. Buzzard was thrown out of the car, apparently, about 60 feet from where the car finally came to a stop.

Jamie Abdella, Bob McComb and the Rev. Charles Yoho were among the first to reach the scene of the accident. While Rev. Yoho stayed with the injured man, McComb went for a doctor and Abdella hurried to Marlinton for an ambulance. Fast as the rolling Seasons bring
The hour of fate to those we love,
Each pearl that leaves the broken string
Is set in Friendship's Crown above.
As narrower grows the earthly chain,
The circle widens in the sky,
These are our treasures that remain,
But those are stars that beam on high.

His Brother, Edgar, died many years since. He married Miss Emma Clark, daughter of the late Sherman Clark, who preceded him January 1, 1919. Their surviving sons are Henry, Assessor of Pocahontas County, and Joel; their daughters, Mrs J. C. Johnson, Mrs Eric Clutter and Miss Leeta. A son, M. L. Jr., died about 16 months ago; another son, Earl, met death by drowning in the Blue Hole, near Hillsboro, on January 4, 1924, and their oldest son, Sherman, died when a student in Hampden Sydney College in 1911.

In his veins coursed the blood of such pioneer first families as Beard, McNeel, Edmiston, Poage, Wallace and Warwick, and it can be truly said his life fulfilled the high traditions of such fine ancestry.

Mr Beard was the largest individual land owner and the heaviest tax payer of this county. A lasting memorial to his broad vision and public spirit is the Hillsboro High School. Its establishment in no small part was due to his efforts and influence as member and president of the Levels District Board of Education. To the last year of his life he took an active and intelligent interest in public affairs. Only last summer he took a prominent place in the state convention of farmers at Jackson Mill.

In religion, Mr Beard was a member of the church of his fathers, the Presbyterian. He took an active part in the work of The Kingdom, and supported liberally all its causes. As a Ruling Elder he was prominent in the affairs of his congregation and in the courts of his church.

While a man of big affairs, taking the place of leader in civil, business and religious life of the county, I would remember my gentle kinsman as the man of the kindly, understanding heart; who met the great of the earth on equal footing, yet deferred to the feelings of a child; whom wealth did not make proud, nor honors spoil, nor personal sorrow and bereavement embitter.

JOSIAH OSBORNE BEARD

In the death of Josiah Osborne Beard at his home at Greenbank, West Virginia, on January 28, 1924, Pocahontas county and this section of the State lost one of its substantial and influential citizens. Monroe, after which he was lain to rest in the Arbovale cemetery. The large crowd in attendance at his funeral regardless of the very severe weather was an evidence of the high esteem in which he was held by the citizens of the county.

When only sixteen years of age Mr. Beard volunteered for service in the Confederate army and served his country faithfully until the close of the war as a member of Company D, Fourteenth Virginia Cavalry. At the opening of the campaign of 1864 the Fourteenth was in Greenbrier and Monroe counties. They were ordered to Staunton to join the forces trying to obstruct or delay Hunter on his march to Lynchburg. General John McCausland, now living in Mason county was in command of the Brigade of Cavalry of which the Fourteenth was a part. They did good service in the task assigned them. The regiment saw its hardest service in the Valley Campaign of that year under Early. After beating Hunter at Lynchburg and pursuing him as far as Salem, Early set out down the Valley to threaten Washington. They crossed the Potom and defeated General Lew Wallac Monocacy. So many ask why the good suffer
Before the end of life's road
The answer is simply written
If the Good Book you'll explore.
Life's road is rough, rugged and steep
Filled with pitfalls and sharp ravines,
Not carpet lined or flower strewn paths
But along it some happiness gleams.
This dear soul who labored
With no time for gossip or meddling,
No habits beyond reproach,
Has borne her troubles and suffering
Before the Glory Road.
God knew her disappointments
Her days He numbered too,
For in His prepared home for her in Heaven
Only sunshine and joy she shares.
With a smile for those most dear to her
She made her last request,
And went home to her Father in Heaven
To mingle with loved ones waiting there.

Sad and sudden was the call
Of one so dearly loved by all,
The blow was great, the shock severe
We never knew his death so near.
Few weeks have passed since that sad day,
When the one we loved was called away.
Forget him, no, we never will
We loved him then, we love him still.
Yes, one by one, the Lord will call us
When our task on earth is done.
Home is sad, Oh, God how dreary,
Lonesome, lonesome, every spot,
Listening for the voice of little Her-
shel Lee,
Silent for we hear him not.
We can never forget you little Her-
shel Lee,
While in this world we stay
When the form of death overcomes
Meet us dear little Hershel Lee, on the way.
Budded on earth to bloom in heaven.

Written by Father and Mother,
Mr and Mrs Edgar Bussard.

She was a faithful member of the Methodist Church at Frost since early childhood. She was a devoted wife and a good mother. Her only grief was to leave her family and her invalid husband.

Grieve not dear friends. We trust that "they mourn not as they who have no hope" for we believe that our loss is her eternal gain. We extend our condolences to the stricken family and hope the God of peace may pour into their bared hearts the oil of joy and gladness.

The sympathy of the community for the bereaved and the esteem in which the dead was held was expressed by the large and weeping concourse that followed her remains to the grave.

wayside marks,
That point to the far off land,
And they speak to the soul of a better day,
Of a day that is near at hand.

Though we first must walk through the darksome vale,
Yet there Christ will be our guide
And we will reach the shore of the far off land
Through a grave on the green hillside.

Mrs. Campbell was the daughter of the late Hon. I. B. Moore and Mrs. Kate Curry Moore of Knapps Creek.

When a girl she gave her heart to God and united with the Methodist Episcopal church, South and remained faithful until her death.

She had been in failing health for sometime and had been confined to her bed since Christmas. She was a patient sufferer during her long illness and everything that medical skill, kind hearts and loving hands could do was done for her comfort; but God knew best and it was His will to take her from this world of suffering to a land of peace and rest.

Her happy disposition was an inspiration to all who knew her. She never complained, was patient in her suffering, and always greeted you with a smile. So brave and happy was she, that invariably her answer was, "Oh, I am all right," no matter when asked how she was feeling. We miss her, but we know she is now with her loved ones, where there is neither pain nor sorrow but where everything is perfect. She was a faithful and loyal worker in the church, Sunday School, Missionary Society and community. In all of these she was untiring in her efforts and unselfish in her life. She was teacher of the Young People's Class and it was through her work and influence that the class grew in number and interest; she gave the best of her ability to the upbuilding of the class and though she has gone her influence will go on in the years to come. She was recording secretary of the Woman's Missionary Society and Supt. of the Social Dept., and was also a member of the auxiliary of the Presbyterian church and was much interested in their work. It was due entirely to her efforts and influence that the cemetery at Dunmore had been made the beautiful plot we now have.

She leaves to mourn their loss her husband, one son, Brown, three sisters, Mrs. Sam McGuffin, Staunton, Va., Mrs. Harry Walker, Wilmington Ohio, and Miss Mary Moore, of Dunmore. Two brothers, Peyton and Fred Moore of Huntersville; her stepmother, Mrs. Sadie Moore and a half brother and sister, Grady and Gladys Moore, all of Knapps Creek, and many other relatives and friends to mourn her departure.

The funeral was held Jan. 30, 1932, at 2:00 in the afternoon in the Methodist church at Dunmore, conducted by her pastor, Rev. R. D. Marshall, assisted by Rev. D. M. Monroe of the Presbyterian church with the concluding prayer at the grave by her brother-in-law, Rev. K. D. Swecker. The hymns used were "It is well with my Soul", "Sometime We'll Understand" "Does Jesus Care" and "Sweet By and By"; was sung both at the church and around the open grave by her Sunday School class. Interment was in the Dunmore cemetery.

The pall-bearers were the young men of her Sunday School class. The girls of the class carried the flowers which were many and beautiful.

The Order of the Eastern Star had charge of the service at the cemetery where they used the beautiful and impressive burial service. This service was in charge of the Cass chapter No. 124, of which she was a member.

Our heartfelt sympathy is extended to her husband, son and other relatives.

Hevener Dilley 1st wife

MRS. ICY AMANDA DILLEY

—MJ—

The subject of this sketch was born near Frost, W. Va. April 10, 1880 and was the 7th child of Mhr O. W. and Mary Amanda Sharp

She united with the Methodist Church at a tender age and lived a consecrated Christian life until her death which occured after a brief illness on March 7th, 1930 at the Memorial Hospital Marlinton, W. Va.

On December 5th, 1906 she was married to Uriah Hevener Dilley by the Rev. Ben Harrop who was stationed at Ronceverte at the time. To this union there were born ten children, nine of whom survive her. Her sixth child, Norman Dilley died in infancy. Those living are Winters Bedfird, Roscoe Hevener, Maynard Burleigh, Charles Kermit, Helen Gertrude, William Gordon, Eugene Parker, Joanne and Bettylee Icy.

The impress of her Christian spirit and Christian example has been highly noticeable in the lives of each of her children who is old enough to recognize and see the Christ Spirit exemplified in human life. Five of her children have temporarily at least left the home to it seemed to be her delight to preing in contact with them have often remarked that they must be young people of past the ordinary breadth of character and fortitude. They make friends whereever they are and very seldom found in even questionable places and generally found at the House of God and in his service on the Sabbath day. If a mother can leave any better legacy to her offspring in particular and the community in general we are unable to appreciate what it is.

Her home was always open for the poor and unfortunate as well as those who are more fortunate. No one ever left her door hungry and it seemed to be her dlight to prepare meals for her family and any and all that came her way. We fear sometimes she may have shortened her good life in the service of others, but is this not the teachings of her Master?

The writer has been in a position to notice her attitude in community activities, church work and in fraternal circles and she certainly has an enviable record in all these activities. The obligation she took were not forgotten, but lived and exemplified in everyday life. Those of us who were fortunate enough to have ben associated with her in any of these human relationships can not escape having had Christ exemplified.

OBITUARY

Miss Ethel Rebecca Dean, departed this life Monday, at about 10 o'clock in the evening, July 20, 1925, after an illness of more than 2 years which was caused by a severe attack influenza. She was a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Isaac P. Dean of Cochran Creek. She was born November 8, 1901, making her 23 years 8 months and 12 days of age.

Ethel had lived a faithful member of the Methodist Protestant Church for about 5 years having made a profession of Christ at an evangelistic meeting held at the Cochran Creek Baptist Church by Rev. R. J. Anderson. She was very obedient to the requirements of the Church. She was a firm believer in prayer, and would always pray in Church when called upon. There were prayers made with her during her sickness, and they were much loved by her, and she often spoke of her regret that she was not able to go to church.

About the last of the voice of Ethel was heard in prayer to the One in whom she put her trust. She has left to mourn their loss, her father, mother, 4 brothers, 2 sisters and many other friends. The funeral service was conducted in the May Chapel M. P. Church of Anthony Creek, by Rev. M. B. King who preached a beautiful soul inspiring sermon, after which the service was concluded at the church graveyard, where her body was laid to rest.

More can be said of Ethel which will be known to be true, and it is well, to be said that it may inspire others to live as she did. Honesty was the foremost feature of her life. The writer was acquainted with her from the 13th year of her life, and is deeply impressed with the high character she possessed. Her presence is sadly missed in the home she left, and it seems strange that one so good and so pure would be taken away when so young, but God knows best. The least that may be said is that she is at rest, and some still voice seems to tell that she is living more than ever before.

ANN DAVIS EDGAR

The Town of Marlinton was stunned by the announcement on the morning of December 3, 1935, that just before dawn, the soul of Ann Davis Edgar had departed, made perfect in holiness, and passed into glory.

She was born in Marlinton July 1, 1914, the daughter of Allan Penick and Caroline Crouch Edgar, a descendant on both her paternal and maternal sides, of families prominent in the social, historical, and political life of Pocahontas and Randolph counties, West Virginia. She had an unusually brilliant mind, and although since early childhood she had been in delicate health with little promise of reaching womanhood, yet by her tireless energy she was determined to complete her education if spared. She finished the prescribed course of study in the Marlinton High School, one of the youngest students ever to graduate; spent one year (1931 32) at Mary Baldwin College, Staunton, Virginia; and entered West Virginia University the fall of 1932. After two years of study she finished the premedical course, and the third and last year completed her first year in the school of medicine. She was a member of Theta chapt of the Chi Omega sorority at th University. On October 5th. represented the Tenth Senatorial trict of West Virginia as one of princesses to the coronation service of Queen Silvia VI at the Mountain State Forest Festival, Elkins, West Virginia. After her return home she was taken ill and spent the last eight weeks of her short life in bed. Her heart, always more or less involved became weaker, her strength began rapidly to fail, and toward the end all hope of her recovery passed. During these last days her body was racked with pain, and she suffered far more than anyone knew, except those who were in constant attendance around her bedside. She bore it all with gentle patience and in sweet submission to God's will. All that medical skill and tender nursing could do was done in an endeavor to prolong her life

She united with the church of her father and mother, Presbyterian, February 16, 1924, upon her profession of faith in Christ, a child of the covenant. Her faith remained true and steadfast, beautiful to the end. Just a few days before her departure, in a conversation with her pastor, she expressed her implicit confidence in the merits of her Savior, and was anxious to know, obey, and submit to His will, and with this blessed assurance she passed on.

On Thursday afternoon, December 5, 1935, in the presence of a large congregation of relatives and friends, her funeral service was conducted in the Marlinton Presbyterian Church by her pastor, Rev. Samuel B. Lapsley, assisted by Rev. Harvey H. Orr, of Richwood, West Virginia, a former pastor who had received her into the communion of the church as a child.

After marriage Mr. Edgar's father settled in the Little Levels, where his wife's ancestors were pioneers.

As a young man George P. Edgar received his education in Hillsboro and Alderson. He then settled on the land of his father in the Little Levels, which he loved so very dearly. Here he spent his entire life farming, and buying and selling livestock. He was very successful at this business and promoted the livestock industry in both Virginia and West Virginia. He traveled extensively and had a host of friends throughout the State of West Virginia, Virginia, and other surrounding States. His friends were of all walks of life.

After the death of his wife, he served as both father and mother to his four children and has left memories to his children and grandchildren of kindness, generousness and understanding.

His trust in his fellowman was beyond compare. He made a lot of his appointments and business by memory and remembered every single one of them. He has been a life long member of the Hillsboro community, living in the old Pearl S. Buck homestead in later years. His unusual ability made him an outstanding citizen, and with his passing another of the wonderful people of his generation will be sadly missed by

I am home in heaven, dear ones;
All's so happy, all's so bright!
There's perfect joy and beauty
In this everlasting light.

All the pain and grief are over,
Every restless tossing passed;
I am now at peace forever,
Safely home in heaven at last.

Did you wonder I so calmly
Trod the Valley of the Shade?
Oh, but Jesus' love illumined
Every dark and fearful glade!
And He came Himself to meet me
On the way so hard to tread;
And with Jesus' arm to lean on,
Could I have one doubt or dread?

Then you must not grieve so sorely,
For I love you dearly still;
Try to look beyond earth's shadows,
Pray to trust our Father's will.

There is work still waiting for you
So you must not idle stand,
Do your work while life remaineth
You shall rest in Jesus' land.

When that work is all completed
He will gently call you home;
Oh, the rapture of the meeting!
Oh, the joy to see you come!

WALTER A. FOX

The news of the death of Walter Alexander Fox came to the community of Mountain Grove, Bath county Virginia, on December 23, 1925, at p. m., like a thunderbolt from a clear sky. Mr. Fox was injured February 19, 1925, while working in the woods. While felling a tree a limb broke off and flew back striking his left arm, breaking it. This arm had caused him much trouble, having it broke over and reset some three or four times. He had not been able to do a day's work since the accident and it is generally thought that his death was due to conditions resulting from this injury.

Mr. Fox was born May 29, 1881: died Dec. 23. 1925, and was buried on Christmas day at 11 o'clock a. m. His age was 44 years, six months and 22 days.

Mr. Fox leaves to mourn his departure his aged father William Fox (who resides with the family), a devoted wife and five children, Emma, Nannie, Arthur, Raymond and Vernon. Mrs. Fox's maiden name was Rider

This death was the occasion for much sadness in the neighborhood, as the community was preparing to have an entertainment and Xmas tree for the Sunday school in the Methodist church, of which he and his family were members, and were to have a rehearsal meeting that evening. Mr. Fox was preparing to take some children to practice, and ran his car aut to a nearby creek to fill the radiator. He stayed longer than usual and Mrs. Fox became uneasy and made mention of the fact, and the father went to investigate and found him dead in the car at the creek where he had stopped, but had not gotten out of the car.

The last work Mr. Fox did at home was to get and place a tree in the parlor for the children. It was only partly trimmed. But alas! in a few hours his lifeless form was placed before the tree and the anticipated joy of the family and neighborhood was turned into sorrow.

Mr. Fox had been a member of the Methodist Church, South, for about twenty-four years, and was always devoted to the interests of his church and assisted to the best of his ability.

The Christmas program was cancelled in respect to the family and a spirit of sympathy for them was deeply manifested. The attendance at the funeral was very large and showed a very loving and neighborly spirit.

The church looses a faithful and loyal member, and the community a good citizen, but words cannot express the loss to the family. Our hearts melt in sympathy for them, although they do not mourn or sorrow as those having no hope, that in some near future the same hand that lead a dear husband and father out of the home, will come and lead the other members of the family to a brighter better land where husband and father has gone to await their coming.

We believe Brother Fox has gone to a land where the Christmas spirit is always in order and that he has joined that immortal throng in singing the songs of Moses and the Lamb. We also believe that our loss is his gain. While his pastor was preparing an address to be given at the Christmas tree, the phone rang and he was notified of this sad news and was obliged to change the nature of his message, which was to have been one of joy and praise to one more serious, yet not wanting for joy and praise, but to warn the living of the uncertainties of life, from the words of David when King Saul sought to kill him, and Jonathan was trying to console him: But truly as the Lord liveth, and as thy soul liveth, there is but a step between me and death.

How much we loved you, nor, how well,
God loved you too, and He thought best,
To take you home, to be at rest.

Our loved one sleeps, whom we call dead."
